Officials object to charges in NOO injunction suit

Local education officials and real estate agents offered angry responses Wednesday to the charges made by some employees of the Naval Oceanographic Office about inadequate housing and educational facilities in local communities.

The charges were made by the Navy employees in connection with the announcement by county executive Winfield Kelly of Prince George County in Maryland that he will seek an injunction order against the move of the NOO office from Suitland, Maryland to the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

Superintendent of education for the Bay-Waveland Separate School District, J. B. McCulloch, objected to the comments made by one of the wives of the Navy employees Mrs. Bernice Green who charged that the schools in Mississippi were inferior to those in Maryland.

"I would ask that she, as well as others who are contemplating locating in this area come and visit our school system, both public and private before making accusations of this nature," said McCulloch. "I also further ask that she contact the lawyers, doctors, engineers and other professional persons in this community who have graduated from our school system to give their opinion on this matter."

"I believe, too, that if she would plan a trip to Mississippi and make a first hand observation of the educational facilities and opportunities in this area as well as the colleges and universities of this state, that she would be more qualified to form her own opinions more objectively," he added.

The request for the injunction will be filed in the U. S. District Court in Baltimore on behalf of the 150 black employees who, according to Kelly, would be thrown out of work if plans for the move proceeded.

A recent report made by the Navy indicated that 85 percent of the black employees would refuse to make the move.

Kelly explained that the transfer would constitute a financial hardship for women and other minorities who cannot afford the move. He also said black employees would refuse to make the move because of a shortage of low-income housing and a fear of unfair treatment of blacks in the area.

"For those who could afford the move, the new area is devoid of social amenities," Kelly said. "One of the main objections of these Navy employees is the general negative attitude of the populace of Bay St. Louis toward minorities."

DuPont experts' answer charges

By DAVID PIERSON

A Mississippi geologist said this week that DuPont's proposed deep well injection system would not endanger the area's drinking water supply. Wilbur H. Knight, the Mississippi geologist who supervised the DuPont geological survey of the DeLisle area, said that there is "no guesswork" about the nature of the rock underground.

"We have an excellent knowledge of the quality, character, and composition of these rocks," said Knight. Knight's answer came in response to a charge by a Save the Bay attorney who said the Coast's drinking water would be endangered by the proposed titanium dioxide plant north of the Bay of St. Louis.

The Save the Bay attorney, Robert Holmes, claimed last week that DuPont's plans to dispose of toxic wastes such as arsenic, cyanide, mercury, and large quantities of iron chloride by a deep well constituted a threat to the area's underground water supply.

Another DuPont official, William Sheehy, the company's public affairs head at Wilmington, Delaware, said that DuPont was using other waste disposal methods at its other titanium dioxide plants, but he added these methods were still "experimental" and not the primary methods used for waste disposal at the plants.

Knight said that there was plenty of evidence that the rock from the 4,000-foot level to the 10,000-foot level was "essentially a continuous sequence of formations of rocks that are shale or chalk that are impermeable."

"There isn't any question of the geology at the well site," said Knight.

Knight said that although there was just one test well drilled at the plant site, the determination of the area's geology was based on the knowledge of hundreds of gas and oil exploration wells within the radius of 50 miles. Geologists have an excellent knowledge of the geology of South Mississippi, said Knight because "thousands of wells have penetrated these same, identical rocks."

"The DuPont-commissioned geologist also said that the waste displacement underground would never get away from the plant site. 'The waste itself,' said Knight, 'will be physically confined to the plant site itself. Therefore, their (Save the Bay) contention that the waste would endanger the water supply of the area is just not so.'"

Knight also addressed himself to the

Save the Bay attorney's charge that the deep well may cause an earthquake. The geologist said that thousands of gallons of salt water have been injected into the oil and gas exploration wells in Mississippi without registering "even a ripple."

This is just a red flag they have waved that just won't bear the scrutiny of any kind of honest evaluation," he said.

DuPont's public affairs head, William Sheehy, said Tuesday that the chemicals corporation's major means of waste disposal are still ocean barging and deep well injection.

Sheehy said that about 80 percent of the waste at the Edge Moor plant in Delaware is disposed of by ocean barging, and that the remaining 20 percent by means of acid neutralization. With the acid neutralization method, the waste is neutralized to ferric chloride, and then sold to sewage plants.

The acid neutralization method, said Sheehy, is still "on an experimental basis. Perhaps it is getting to be a little bit more than experimental because in its early stages it has been quite successful," he said.

"By 1981," said Sheehy, "theoretically all the wastes from that plant could be put to use from this (acid neutralization) service."

However, Sheehy warned, the acid neutralization method would not be suitable in Mississippi. Acid neutralization is acceptable in the northeast because of the high concentration of population in that area.

"You probably economically could not use this method in New Johnsonville," said Sheehy, "and it would be a much more difficult thing from an economic standpoint in Mississippi." He said that although New Orleans and Mobile are nearby, still there is not a large enough concentration of people to make the waste method compete economically with those closer to the northeast.

"In order to compete economically against existing products," said Sheehy, "you can't move the ferric chloride very great distances."

The New Johnsonville plant, he said, still uses the deep well disposal system, and the new iron chloride oxidation method, he said, is still in its "early stages."

"Wastes at the New Johnsonville plant are by no means disposed of by this new method," he said. He called the iron chloride oxidation method still in its pioneer stages, "just out of the laboratory."

"The deep well in New Johnsonville," said Sheehy, "has never been a detriment to the water supply there, by the way."

The deep well method, he said, is not a cheaper method. "Now I'm making a categorical statement," he said, "maybe it can be challenged." Later in the interview, however, he referred to the deep well method as "very inefficient and expensive."

Presently, according to Sheehy, there are only two workable methods of waste disposal, deep wells and ocean barging. DuPont, he added, prefers to use the deep well system over the ocean barging method.

When asked why the deep well system was chosen for the DeLisle site, Sheehy said, "It is the preferred technique if shown to be geologically suitable." He said that DuPont "simply didn't want to get into" ocean barging on the Coast.

He said that if the new iron chloride oxidation method being tried in New Johnsonville was successful, it would be used in DeLisle.

Sheehy said it was an "incomplete statement" that the higher the concentration of ore, the less waste there was to dispose of, but he said, there is a difference of opinion of how much waste quality ore is available in the area.

He said that a higher quality ore is being used at the DuPont plant in Andover, California. However, the waste disposal method used there is not the same as the one being used in Mississippi, he said.

Three supervisors seats up for grabs in runoff

By ANITA DINWIDDIE

Three supervisor seats are still undecided as Hancock residents return to the polls Tuesday for the second Democratic primary.

Only two supervisors, James Travira, beat five, and A. A. Keller, beat two, gained first primary victories with incumbents Jerry Ladner and Oscar Peterson facing challengers in the runoff and two challengers vying for the post vacated by supervisor Bully Zengarling.

The most hotly contested of the three remaining races is in beat one where incumbent Jerry Ladner trailed his challenger, former supervisor Harlan G. Dean, in the first primary by 51 votes.

"I feel very confident that I will win by a good margin," said Dean. "Normally the incumbent pulls his punch in the first primary. In the other races that has been true. Two have been elected in the first primary and the other incumbent seeking re-election is leading in the runoff. My opponent is in real trouble."

The condition of the roads in beat one has surfaced as the major issue in the campaign. Dean charges that Ladner has not maintained the roads properly and has caused the county to lose state aid money because of the poor maintenance.

"I am relying on my experience as a road contractor and as a supervisor," Dean said. "The people know the amount I constructed while in office and they know the condition of the roads now."

Ladner defended his administration saying that the number of roads in the beat have tripled since Dean was in office. He also said that during his four years as supervisor he had pulled the beat out of the $36,000 debt acquired in the previous term.

"I am 99 percent sure," Ladner said, "that there are more people in the beat who want honest government than who don't want honest government, and because of that, I think I will be re-elected."

He said that incumbent Oscar Peterson also ran into the runoff with a challenger, Dean Ladner, a justice of the peace from DeLisle.

Travira's runoff stage of the ten primary and beat one in the first primary and beat Ladner by some 50 votes. Travira, however, expressed surprise that the runoff should be so close. He said he had with him a number of people who had been in the beat for a long time and they had timed his policies of the past without any increase in taxes.

"During the past four years we have had an increase in assessments from $27 million to $34 million," said Peterson. "And I will continue the present policy of attracting more industry to the county."

Both Ladner and Peterson pledge encouragement of new industry, better roads and sewerage, an improved hospital facility and improved recreation areas.

In beat four Sam Perniciaro presently holds the lead against Hugo V. Haas. In the first primary Perniciaro, owner of Perniciaro's Wrecker Service led Haas, a retired civil service worker and constable of beat four, by about 300 votes.

"I think it would be safe to say that I will beat my opponent two to one," said Perniciaro Tuesday.

Both candidates in this race also stress improvement of roads in the beat, encouragement of industry and new recreational programs.

Perniciaro pledged to work with senators and representatives to bring industry to the county and he also promised a raise for county employees.

Other races creating interest in the county include the runoff for the state representative seat vacated by Earl "Buck" Ladner between Hancock County Prosecutor, J. P. Compretta and attorney Walter James Phillips, both of Bay St. Louis.

Compretta led Phillips, a former state representative by approximately 1800 votes in the first primary, needing only 500 more votes for a first primary victory. He captured 33 precincts out of a total of 47 in a field of six candidates.

Earl "Buck" Ladner, the incumbent state representative, faces incumbent Sylvan Ladner in the sheriff's race. Sylvan Ladner led his opponent by about 1600 votes in the first primary. The incumbent sheriff is seeking his fourth term in office.

Earl Ladner served four years as deputy sheriff and two years as justice of the peace before his election to the state legislature in 1972.

Johnson will not protest vote

Waveland alderman Charles Johnson, a first primary candidate for supervisor of beat two, announced last week that he would not pursue any legal protest against the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee who awarded the first primary victory to his opponent, the incumbent, A. A. "Dolph" Keller.

Johnson, who had been slated for a runoff against Keller, was knocked out of the second primary race by a runoff of the votes Aug. 7 which gave Keller the first primary victory by a wide margin.

The Waveland resident announced after the runoff that he would not protest the vote because the Democratic Executive Committee threw out two votes cast for him and would have placed him in the runoff against Keller.

"I am still convinced that the Democratic Executive Committee made a mistake in voiding those two ballots," Johnson said. "But I feel it is in my best interest to make a runoff with Keller."

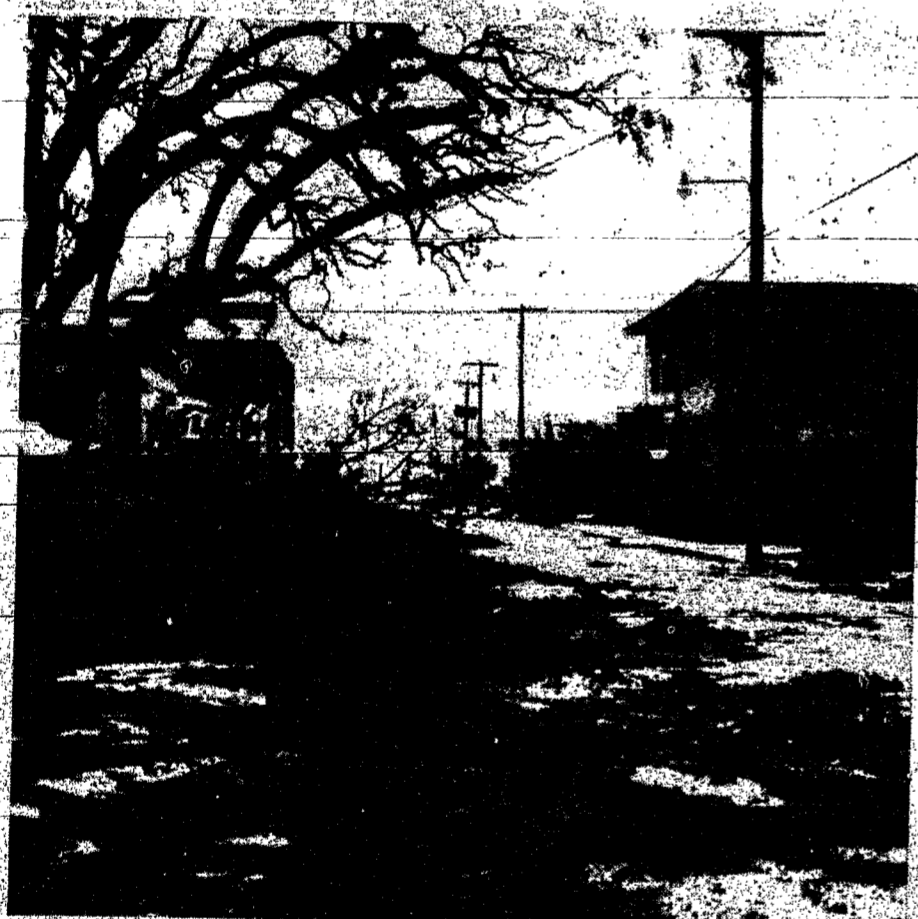

The ballot board, which voided the two ballots, said the ballots were marked with a double X by someone other than the voter. Johnson said that although he had go to court to fight the recount, he would, in his position as alderman, mayor of Waveland, and the supervisor of beat two, make his responsibilities to his constituents.

Jackson Landing phase-out part of reorganization, says Hill

Charles Hill, said Thursday, that the company would temporarily suspend its barge building operations at Port Bienville Industrial Park to permit the company to reorganize and install a facility capable of economic production.

Hill made the statement in a press release sent to the Port and Harbor Commission meeting Thursday following reports that the company was going out of business.

Hill said that the directive would be in full effect upon completion of existing work contracts.

The release went on to explain that the company had intended to construct a facility capable of producing approximately one barge per week, but had been delayed in completion of the project.

"Instead of pursuing the project, Jackson Landing digressed into barge construction, resulting in repeated postponements of completion," Hill explained.

"Without the realization of our originally designed and intended modular production capability, we cannot compete with other shipyards," he added.

Hill said that following the reorganization and yard building program, the company will reopen for barge building with a greatly expanded work force.

The company is presently faced with a lien suit filed by Orleans Materials and Equipment Co., Inc. for payment of materials for two barges in the amount of $7,901.32.

At the port and harbor meeting Director Wilson Webre said he felt that the current problems at Jackson Landing were internal and the company would be able to resume operation.

Commissioner Harris raised the question of the deed to the last purchase agreement with the company for lot 4A at Port Bienville which contains no repurchase clause in the event that the company fails to fulfill its promised development.

Webre, however, reassured the commission of his confidence that the company would solve its present troubles.

In other business the commission approved a purchase agreement for 5.8 acres of land at Stennis International Airport with Walle Corporation of New Orleans, a general printing firm.

The president of the company, David F. Pyburn, appeared along with contractor Michael Smith to make the final negotiations. The purchase agreement was presented several months ago but was delayed, Pyburn said, because of the economic conditions and high interest rates.

Pyburn said, however, that the company is now ready to proceed with the application for bonds and plans to proceed with plant construction within one year.

The commissioners voted to recommend to the board of supervisors the sale of a lot north of the Vo-tech Center for $4,500 with the stipulation that the company proceeds with construction within one year and employs at least three persons per acre at the site upon completion.

Upon approval by the supervisors, the purchase will be presented to the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board for approval.

A committee of three was appointed by president J. D. McCulloch Thursday to study possible revisions of the 1975-76 budget. The port and harbor budget of $199,500 was approved by the board of supervisors last week, but the $30,000 budgeted for the airport was rejected.

Director Wilson Webre said the supervisors had explained that the budget could not exceed the five mills allocated to port and harbor and the two budgets would have to be combined. Serving on the committee will be John Scaffid, Dave McDonald and Jim DeBlanc.

Webre also suggested that before final budget revisions were complete, the commission would need to finalize its contract with Global Associates, managers of Stennis International Airport.

He suggested that Jackson Balch, newly appointed advisor to the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, be asked to aid in negotiations with Global to work out a new contract.

In final action the board voted to investigate the possibility of building a storage shed at Bienville Terminal for port and harbor maintenance equipment.

Webre said he had been advised by Marine Concrete Structures, one of the industries at Port Bienville that modular concrete material could be purchased for a 64 foot by 24 foot open building at a cost of about $5,000.

The shed would contain a roofed area which could serve as an office for the security force and a storage room for hand tools. Webre said Marine Concrete Structures had offered to do much of the work involved in the project.

HARLAN G. DEAN

believes that the Best Politics is SERVICE to the People. This is "Standing Up for the People"!

1. Harlan G. Dean has served as constable of Beat One for three terms. Elected each time in the first primary. He never used the words "standing up for the people", his acts were for the people.
2. Harlan G. Dean was elected twice by the people of Beat One as Supervisor, once without opposition, and again got a majority of the votes in Beat One. Defeated in a county-wide race. His service to the people was reflected at the polls.
3. Harlan G. Dean as Supervisor cooperated with the other members of the Board. He made the original motion laying the groundwork for the Port and Harbor and the Airport Development. He made the motion to construct the Perpetrator Wing to the County Hospital, all while keeping Beat One roads in good state of repair, paving more roads than all other supervisors in the history of the beat combined. THIS RECORD STILL STANDS!
4. Harlan G. Dean has educated his children in the public schools of Hancock County. He never voted against any proposition for the upgrading of the schools and never will. He believes that education is vital to the cultural and industrial development of the County.
5. Harlan G. Dean believes that accomplishments come only through hard work and cooperation with other officials, particularly other board members.
6. Harlan G. Dean will never make it necessary for the other supervisors to work his roads, or give cause for threatened loss of State and Federal funds because of failure to maintain or properly construct Beat one roads.
7. Harlan G. Dean brings to your attention the fact that two of the four members of the Hancock County Board offering for re-election were re-elected in the first primary, a third member has a long lead. These men never bragged about "standing up for the people"; the people recognized their work and in this manner determined who was standing up for them.
8. Finally, for the benefit of the new voters, Harlan G. Dean would like to give a little personal facts. He and his wife Sue with their child, Michelle, reside in Pearlington. His son, Harlan Jr. and wife Gloria reside in Bay St. Louis; daughter Karen and her husband "Doc" Rhodes, Gulfport; daughter Cheryl and husband Drew Fillingame are in Alaska. Harlan G. Dean is a member of the Official Board of the Pearlington Methodist Church.

Thank you

I wish to thank all of you who supported me in the recent August 5th primary elections, and particularly those of my friends and family who worked almost around the clock on my behalf.

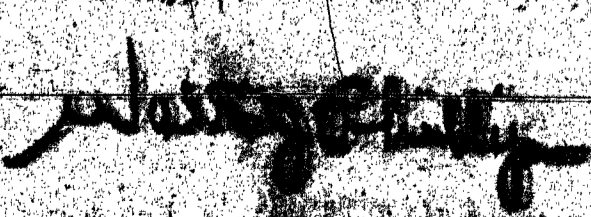

We were not in the lead when the votes were counted, but I was nevertheless very pleased with the voter response to a straightforward campaign platform.

As I said, I have been there, and it is my sincere desire to go back to the House of Representatives, where I can put the full effectiveness of 16 years of legislative experience to work for the people of Hancock County.

Make no mistake, the complex mechanism of state government, coupled with the pressing needs of those you are elected to represent, are a gristmill that will render ineffective the efforts of the inept or the inexperienced.

I earnestly solicit your vote and support, and promise the type of leadership that will make your choice a State Representative for 16 years.

Sincerely,

Mayor asks patience with drainage problems

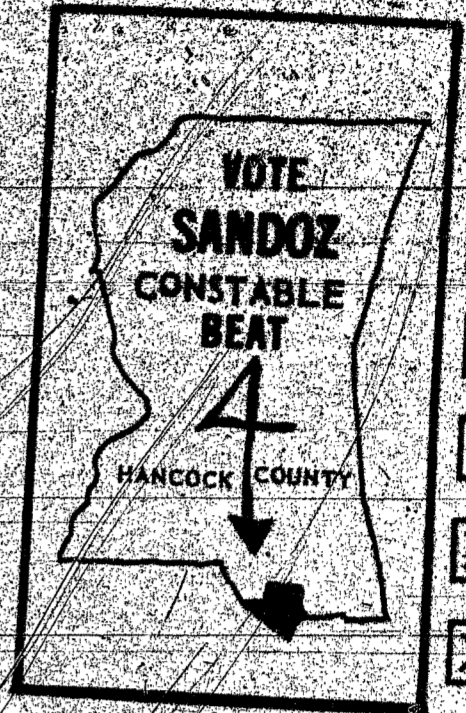

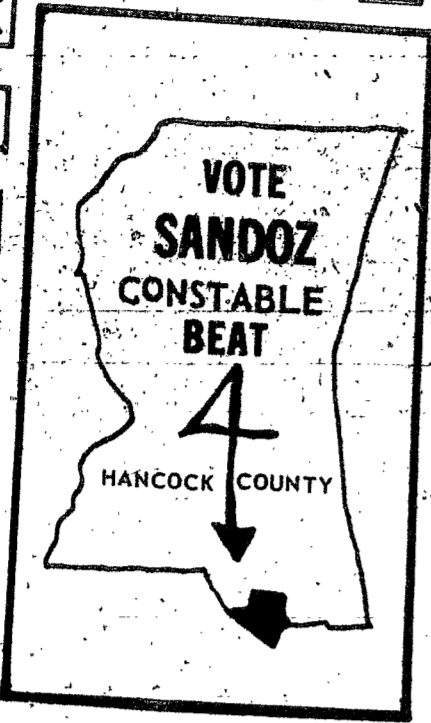

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said Tuesday that it has been impossible for his office to answer the flood of complaints by residents about the drainage problems in the city.

"The recent long and heavy rains have played havoc with the ditches, the roads and the drainage in the community," the mayor said. "We are actually kept busy just answering calls from people who are asking that office what can be corrected. We are making every effort to do what we can, but with limited work crews it is impossible to take care of every call."

Carver said the ditches had become blocked with heavy growth of grass and weeds as well as the debris which has piled up in the drainage areas. He said that residents were adding to the problem by throwing garbage and trash into the ditches.

"Each rain also does great damage to some of our streets," the mayor said. "In some areas, the roadways are covered with only a thin and inadequate layer of blacktop. When the ground becomes saturated with heavy rains the water tends to seep under the thin layer and the street begins to disintegrate."

The mayor said that crews have been working on the problem of clearing the drainage ditches, but that it would be some time before the problem was corrected.

Mobile Medic will be bankrupt by year's end

By DAVID PIERSON

Mobile Medic president Doug Burgin said this week that his subscription ambulance service will run out of funds in either December or January.

"We definitely don't have enough money to go all year," said Burgin, following the company's membership drive that ended Saturday. "By January Mobile Medic will be flat broke."

Burgin said that the drive, which came up with 99 fewer members than last year (a drop from 11,241 to 11,102) will not produce the revenue Mobile Medic needs to operate this year. The company's projected budget, said Burgin, is $280,000. That includes employee pay raises and the acquisition of new equipment.

The subscription drive, netted $166,530, and with a projected income of $75,000 from non-member fees, Burgin said, the company will still fall short of its budget.

"We're not going to cut back on our services," he said. "We'll operate on what we've got just as long as we can, but with that we'll possibly fold in December or January." The Mobile Medic head bemoaned the fact that the ambulance service received support from slightly more than 25 percent of the 40,000 homes in Hancock and West Harrison Counties.

"An ambulance service needs more support than that if it wants to make the operation a successful business operation," he said. Burgin referred to the Acadian Ambulance Service in Lafayette, Louisiana which reportedly receives support from more than 50 percent of the homes in its area. Mobile Medic was modeled after the Acadian service.

Burgin attributed the drop in membership to the heavy political advertising at the time of the membership drive. "Apparently everyone tuned us out along with the others," he said.

He also said there was a large level of apathy in the public which attributed to the drop. "People just don't think about an ambulance service until they need it," said Burgin.

The drive originally was set to end January 31, but when the membership fell over 5,000 short of the 15,000-plus goal, Burgin extended the drive two weeks. "In those two additional weeks," said Burgin, "we picked up only an additional 500 members."

Burgin said that he was not going to seek aid from local governing bodies to keep the company above water financially. The Mobile Medic head refused help last year from the Hancock County Supervisors because he wanted to keep the operation free from public money.

He also said that he did not anticipate another subscription drive at this time nor was he considering a raise in the cost of the service to non-members. Presently, non-members pay between $40 and $45 for the service.

Mobile Medic showed a small profit from the operational standpoint last year, said Burgin, but he added that the capital costs from starting up took away all those gains.

When asked about the fledgling Hancock County Ambulance Service, Burgin said that a subscription ambulance service cannot thrive on competition but might need to have some sort of monopoly like public utilities to make the business venture profitable. Burgin did say, however, that he did welcome more stringent controls and regulations such as those adopted this week by the Gulfport City Council which call for the licensing and inspection of ambulances.

that the moderate gains in Waveland and West Biloxi and the larger gain in Kiln, plus the addition of other areas to Mobile Medic's region, was not enough to offset the losses in the bigger cities along the Coast.

A breakdown of Mobile Medic's membership for 1975 is as follows (Last year's figures are in parentheses): Gulfport 5,775 (5,793); Long Beach 1,065 (1,036); Pass

Christian 1,134 (1,247); Sauter 270 (283); West Biloxi 254 (210); Perkinston 14 (0); Bay St. Louis 1,347 (1,460); Waveland 446 (406); Kiln 269 (104); Pearlport 77 (47); Piquette 12 (0); Other 16 (0). Hancock County memberships totalled 8,514 this year and Hancock County netted 2,586. Last year Harrison and Hancock totalled 8,569 and 2,612, respectively.

TO THE VOTERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY: A MISTAKE?

Many people say that in the first primary I did a lot of things wrong. Since I am an educator, not a politician, I probably have made many mistakes in my campaign.

I have promised jobs to no one, nor have I made deals with anyone; if that is a mistake, then I have made one.

I have made no promises except to build you a school system second to none; if that is a mistake, then I have made one.

I did not spend large sums of money on huge advertisements, parties, or t-shirts, preferring to take my campaign to the people personally; if that is a mistake, then, again, I have made one.

Finally, I entered this race because I believe the people of Hancock County are ready for a school system characterized by discipline and learning; if this is a mistake, what a tragedy for our children.

Winter promises development of coast port facilities

U.S. Gov. William Winter, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor said his number one priority on the coast, if elected, would be the development of the port facilities of the coast cities.

Winter made the statement at a press conference Monday at the Westside Community Center in Gulfport and included Bay St. Louis along with Biloxi, Gulfport and Pascagoula in the proposed development.

"I have watched the development of the Gulf Coast for a long time, ever since I first began in the state legislature," Winter said, "and I believe that the coast is the most valuable asset the state has. It is the front door to the world for all the raw materials produced in the rest of the state, and I believe that with proper development, it could easily rival New Orleans and Mobile."

In addition to development of the port facilities, Winter also promised further industrial development for the coast area.

"The living is good down here on the coast, and of course, we don't want to see that environment destroyed," the candidate said. "What we need here on the coast is the selective attraction of industry to the area. We need the industry for the employment it will bring for the people here."

Winter said that he felt Mississippi has a responsibility to promote the development of off-shore oil fields, and he added that interest in that development would surely increase in the future.

The Lieutenant Governor said that in order to bring such industry and development to the state, he felt his greatest accomplishment if elected would be to project a better image of the state to outsiders.

"I would like to contribute to the better understanding of Mississippi by outsiders," Winter said. "I want to win friends for us and increase the willingness of outsiders to invest in the development of this state. Only the Governor can do that effectively, and I think I can do it."

Winter said tourist promotion would be a third priority for the Gulf Coast. He predicted that the new Coliseum-Convention Center would attract many to the area.

A fourth objective for the coast would be further development of the institutions for higher education. He specifically mentioned an expanded curriculum for the Gulf Park campus.

Winter also addressed the problem of high gasoline prices in the state saying that he would push for the elimination of the double taxation policy of placing a sales tax on the excise tax.

"It is not a major reduction," he said. "I mainly oppose the sales tax on the principle of the matter. It is inconsistent with the principle of sound government."

He added that the elimination of the tax would not cause a significant loss in the state treasury because the rising cost of gasoline compensated for the tax.

On the election Tuesday, Winter said that he was confident of a victory over his opponent Cliff Finch.

He said that his office had not conducted an exhaustive investigation into the recent allegations of illegal contributions in the Finch campaign.

"My office did not initiate the question of the finances of my opponent's campaign," he said. "I am leaving it up to the people to demand an answer from my opponent."

The candidate criticized his opponent's claim that he is the "working man's candidate." Winter cited many programs that he had sponsored for the working population in the state including the Workmen's Compensation Act he authored while in the state legislature.

"That is a great misconception in this campaign," he said. "I didn't just discover the working man in this campaign. I have always sponsored programs for better jobs, better working conditions and better pay for them. It is the number one issue in this campaign. It isn't enough to say that you are for the working man, you must understand his feelings, hopes, dreams and problems."

The winner of the Democratic nomination will face Republican Gil Carmichael in the general election, and the question was raised as to whether Carmichael supporters might cast a vote for Finch, the candidate believed to be the weaker of the two against the Republican opposition.

"I cannot believe that the voters in this state would be so cynical," Winter said. "They would not vote for a candidate because they felt he would be easier for another man to defeat."

Winter expressed no preference in the Lieutenant Governor's race where Brad Dye and Evelyn Gandy face each other in a runoff.

"I, better than anyone, know the requirements of that office," he said. "and I will respect that office and work harmoniously with whoever is elected."

Winter added that he would also work with the state legislature and gain their respect in order to get his programs passed.

"The power of the Governor is up to the Governor himself," he said, "and how well he performs in the office."

Hancock chamber plans "Blue Book"

Local merchants have the opportunity to have their firm listed in the new Blue Book of Business Buyer's Guide which will be put out by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in September.

The book will list both alphabetically and categorically all members of the chamber up to Aug. 31, the printing deadline. Chamber manager Max Berns said that the book would contain all those businesses who wished to be included in the directory to become a member of the chamber before Aug. 31.

"The businesses listed in the directory are the backbone of the community," Berns said. "These are the people the chamber recommends as giving prompt and courteous service to their customers." Berns said the books would be automatically distributed to all chamber members and to new groups moving to the community such as the Navy employees recently transferred to NSTL. There will be a slight charge, he said, for others wishing to receive a book.

City council discusses litter barrel removal

The problem of overflowing litter barrels in Bay St. Louis was discussed at Monday's council meeting when Commissioner Lucien Kidd suggested that removal of the barrels would be the best solution to the problem.

Kidd said that the problem is mainly due to local people depositing garbage from their homes in the public barrels which have been placed around the city for visitors to use.

"Everybody always says that it is the visitors that create the problem," Kidd said. "But really it is the local people who are the worse offenders. We know because we have found addresses of local residents in the garbage. Why anyone would take their trash to a litter barrel instead of having it picked up at their home, I don't know, but they do."

Kidd suggested that the problem might be solved by simply removing the barrels. He said that Moss Point had found that removing the barrels corrected a similar problem they had there. Superintendent of Public Streets, Felix Seeger agreed with Kidd, saying "When we saw that one barrel was overflowing, we put another one out, and it overflowed. The more we put, the more trash we find."

The council took no immediate action on Kidd's suggestion, however, saying, that they would wait until after Labor Day to see if the problem diminished.

In other business, the council scheduled an inspection tour of the Bay-Waveland Animal Shelter at the request of the Humane Society.

A representative of the group presented a list of improvements for the shelter including: hire a full-time warden, improve the physical facilities of the shelter, improve the sanitary conditions and enforce the city ordinances concerning pets.

"Right now the sanitary conditions are so bad that when an animal comes in we might as well put him away right then," said J. R. Lavoie of the Humane Society. "They cannot be adopted under the present conditions."

Mayor Warren Carver, said the council would proceed on the society's recommendations following the inspection tour. He also said he would hire a new dogcatcher for the Bay St. Louis area as soon as possible.

The council approved an application for $185,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development under the Community Development Act of 1974. The city will apply for the money for drainage projects upon the recommendation of city engineers, Burk and Associates.

The council also voted to participate in the Southern Building Code Certification Inspection Program. The three-city inspectors will participate in a certification course qualifying them to conduct the periodic inspections.

Kidd also suggested that the city look into a system of mechanized garbage pick-up similar to the one used in Moss Point.

He first suggested the mechanized system last year, but was opposed by Mayor Warren Carver. Carver said Monday that the system would cost the city about $150,000 to implement.

The method involved containers at an approximate cost of $1.50 per month. Kidd said that the system was much more efficient and said that Moss Point officials told him it saved 50 percent in their garbage collector budget.

No action was taken, however, on his suggestion to look into the system.

Officials object to NOO charges

Mrs. Neil Frisbie, a real estate agent and a member of the chamber of commerce who recently addressed NOO employees on housing at a meeting for the employees in Maryland said that the charge that housing is inadequate is false.

"Anyone could just look at the books and see what is available to know that this is false," she said. "It is clear to me that they just do not know what they are talking about."

Other local officials including Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver and Waveland Mayor John Long called the charges of unfair treatment of blacks "ridiculous" and suggested that the Navy employees visit the area before making such accusations.

Mrs. Green charged that the move was not only discriminatory against black people but against Jewish families as well.

She charged that the nearest synagogue is 35 miles from Bay St. Louis and it would be impossible for orthodox Jews who are supposed to walk to synagogue to practice that part of their faith.

"I have lived in Vietnam and I would prefer living there to living in Bay St. Louis," she said.

Kelly also noted that a move of some 1200 employees from Suitland would cause an economic hardship for Prince George County where approximately 750 of the employees now reside.

He said that there were no plans at present to locate any other agency in the building occupied by the NOO. He added that if a recent Navy report saying that 85 percent of the black employees will not make the move is true, that the county would suffer financially in assuming the welfare costs for those who stayed behind.

"If this action goes unchecked, families will be disrupted and the community ties broken all for the sake of bureaucratic reorganization," he said.

A Navy spokesman defended the move saying that the campus type facility at NSTL would enable the Navy to consolidate its activities in one location. He said that at present the activities of the center are scattered in 10 office buildings in Suitland.

Miss Deborah Eagan becomes the bride of Joseph Jordan

St. Patrick's Church in New Orleans was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Miss Deborah Lynn Eagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Leitz Eagan of New Orleans to Joseph Lomax Jordan, Jr., son of Mrs. Norma Jean Jordan and Joseph Lomax Jordan, Sr. of Lafayette, La.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza over peau de soie and re-embroidered Alencon lace, beaded in crystal and seed pearls. The tight bodice featured a V shaped yoke of beaded lace with a ring laced collar. Long tight sleeves were finished with lace inserts at the wrist. The waistline was defined by a band of lace.

The soft A-line skirt was edged in a wide lace band and wide ruffle. The cathedral train fell from the back waistline in soft folds. Her long veil was of imported English illusion in matching candlelight and was attached to a beaded lace cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of white and pink roses with baby's breath.

Miss Ellen Elizabeth Eagan served her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. James J. Crane, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Miss Rae-Read Schoonmaker, Karen Louise Heausler, Barbara Montelepre and cousin to the bride, Nancy Marie Eagan.

The attendants wore formal gowns of mint green voile fashioned with shirred bodices. The scooped necklines were outlined in narrow ruffles. The long tight sleeves were finished with ruffles as were their A-line skirts. A narrow velvet band defined their waists. They carried old fashioned bouquets of assorted pink silk flowers and baby's breath and wore small pink flowers in their hair.

In 1965,
as your state representative,
I secured an additional one million dollars to help pay for the Bay Bridge.

In 1965 I was the co-author of an Amendment, which resulted in the allocation of approximately One Million Dollars of State funds to the reduction of the amounts due on the Bay Saint Louis Toll Bridge and the Back Bay Biloxi Toll Bridge. This enabled the Bridge Trust Fund to reach a sufficient amount, resulting in a reduction of the bridge toll.

Today,
we need to secure interest forgiveness for our Camille loans.

Following Hurricane Camille, the Governor's Emergency Council granted disaster loans to Hancock County, and the Cities of Bay Saint Louis and Waveland. The interest due on these loans will be approximately $400,000.00, which can be forgiven through action by our state legislature. I intend to see that this is done.

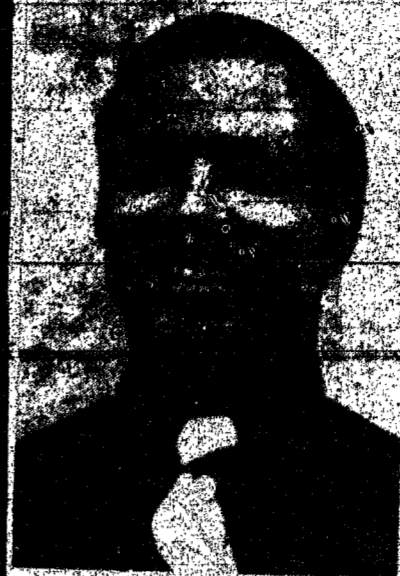

Let's put 16 years of experience back to work.

My

Appreciation

A big "THANK YOU" to all of the voters of Hancock County.

During the months of June, July, and August, I conducted my first campaign for political office in Hancock County. It was a pleasurable experience meeting and talking to each of you on a personal basis. I will never forget the courteous manner in which I was received by the nice people of Hancock County.

Congratulations to John Rutherford for being re-elected to the office of Chancery Clerk and for the gentlemanly manner in which he conducted his campaign.

I was especially proud that 3006 Hancock Countians chose to vote for me on August 5th. This expression of confidence in me has increased my ambition for political office in Hancock County. A very special "THANK YOU" to each and every one of you.

Lila Ladner Taylor

(Pd. Pol. Adv.)

"Instead of spending large amounts of money on paid political advertising, I carried my message personally to the people, and depended on my friends. You placed me in the lead in the first primary, and I am deeply grateful.

I now ask all others to join us for a victory on August 26.

As your next Lieutenant Governor, my only commitment will be to you."

Library awards summer readers

Reading certificates were awarded this week to those children who actively participated in the Public Library's Summer Reading Program.

Those children who were not able to pick up their certificates this week, can do so in the coming week.

This year's program, sponsored by the Mississippi Library Commission, promoted the enjoyment and values obtained through reading. There were no restrictions on the type of literature read by the children other than the fact that they read on their current ability level.

A total of 1520 books were read by the 141 children who joined the Hancock County Bookmobile Summer Reading Program. At the branch library in Waveland, 65 children joined and read 319 books. 165 children registered at City-County Library and read a total of 1180 books during the summer.

Tom Stennis wants Open, Honest Operation of Highway Department

NO SECRET MEETINGS

It's time to end closed and secret meetings where public business is being conducted. As your Highway Commissioner I will insist upon open, honest operation of your Highway Department. I will insist all meetings of the Highway Commission be open to the press and public. Also, I believe it's important to know what your Highway Commissioner owns and where he gets his income. I have made public my financial statement and the source of my income and will do so each year I am in office. Although I have challenged my opponent to make the same pledge, so far he has refused.

THE PEOPLE WILL HAVE A VOICE

The Highway Department was established to serve the people. I will insist that the people of the Southern District be given the greatest possible service. To do this, frequent and regular public hearings will be held at various locations in the District. The Highway Department staff and I, as your Commissioner, will hear requests and exchange ideas with individual citizens or groups affected by highway construction. In every case of a major proposal a special public hearing will be held to make certain the action taken by the Highway Department is truly responsive to the needs of the people.

TOUGH INSPECTIONS, MONEY USED WISELY

It is the duty of the Highway Commissioner to squeeze out every mile of highway there is in a tax dollar. As your Commissioner, I will do that. I will establish management and purchasing practices in the Highway Department that will absolutely insure the most effective administration of the Highway Department it is possible to achieve. A strict inspection procedure will be established to make sure the low bidder meets the standards and specifications of good construction. We must guarantee the people get their money's worth. There will be no pet contractors.

LOCAL NEEDS TO GET ATTENTION

Every community has special road and highway problems. During the first two months I am in office I will personally visit every county in the Southern District to determine their needs and understand special problems. Ample notice will be given so any person who wants to talk to the Commissioner can do so.

SPEED UP NEEDED WORK

I will give top priority to badly needed improvements that have lagged far behind.

Interchanges on Highways 84 and 45, and constructing the North-South corridor in East Mississippi are overdue. Highway 61 should have been improved long ago. Highways 98 and 33 should have immediate attention. Bridges need to be widened on Highways 84 and 15. There are other badly needed improvements.

As a full time Highway Commissioner who wants to serve the people, I will get our stalled-out Highway Program off dead center.

HELP TO TOWNS, CITIES AND COUNTIES

Roads and highways are vitally important to the development of our towns, cities and counties. As your Commissioner, I will obtain the best consultant services in Mississippi. For the special skills not obtainable here I will call upon the Federal Government and the best technical specialists available. The services of these experts will be made available to local government authorities and civic groups with responsibility for the planning and growth of our political subdivisions. In addition I will provide a full-time, competent community development section for the Southern District to assist and advise public officials and private citizens who request planning or management help related to highways.

Trust Tom Stennis
For Highway Commissioner

If "Shag" Pyron had stuck to THE TRUTH this ad would have ended here

Tom Stennis Rights "Shag's" Wrongs

In one day 'Shag' Pyron spent more money ($30,000 plus) on full page newspaper ads than he will make as Highway Commissioner in over a year. Instead of telling people what he would do to improve highways, he used the space to print falsehoods, incomplete facts and misleading information about Tom Stennis. It's bad enough to try to "buy" the Highway Commissioner's office with advertisements; it's worse to try to "buy" the office with outright distortions.

CHARGE: In a full page newspaper ad and in public statements, 'Shag' Pyron claimed he had nothing to do with building the $304,000 I-55 Martinsville Interchange leading to his family's farm.

FACTS: In the first primary 'Shag's' TV advertisements repeatedly said:

1. "Four major interchanges in South Mississippi — The Picayune Interchange in Pearl River County, the Martinsville Interchange in Copiah County, the Pinebelt Airport Interchange serving Forrest and Jones Counties and the I-10 Interchange on the Gulf Coast — were all Federally approved, designated and built during the administration of Highway Commissioner 'Shag' Pyron."

2. The Federal Highway Administration in a letter dated July 1, 1970, eighteen months after 'Shag' became Highway Commissioner, approved connecting the Martinsville access road to I-55. However, the same letter stated "...the interchange must be financed with other than Federal Aid Interstate Funds." If the interchange had been justified the Federal Government would have paid ninety percent of the costs. It did not. Therefore, it was built for 'Shag' during his administration, at great expense to Mississippi taxpayers.

3. The Martinsville Interchange was offered for bids on March 8, 1971. The contract to build it was awarded on May 28, 1971, two years after Pyron took office.

CHARGE: Tom Stennis cannot manage people because he had an altercation with a County sanitation employee.

FACTS: A disgruntled County employee became irate when Tom Stennis, as Mayor, insisted the law as to garbage truck operation be obeyed. Physical violence, not initiated by Tom Stennis, resulted.

The employee filed a charge of Assault and Battery against Tom Stennis. The employee later withdrew the charge on advice of his attorney who said there was no case.

The employee has a long record of involvement with the law. Since 1970 several affidavits charging Assault and Battery and Threat to do Bodily Harm have been filed against him by various persons, the most recent one last month.

CHARGE: Highway users of South Mississippi have reason to be concerned about Tom Stennis' credit ability.

FACTS: The State Tax Commission, as a matter of routine in such cases, filed judgment liens against Tom Stennis when he had a retail business and failed to pay Sales Tax Forms on time. It was Tom Stennis who first made this information public in the press, during press conferences throughout the Southern District. Tom 'Shag' Pyron tried to make it his own.

Tom Stennis has made a record of his financial affairs. He has reported his income and assets, his income and where he got it, every year since 1968. His income has been reported to the IRS and the State Tax Commission.

Area schools announce free lunch program

The policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk at area schools for children unable to pay the full price was announced this week by school principals.

The program, which comes under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk Program, is based on family size and income.

The eligibility scale for family incomes is listed below.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for the program, it should contact the school.

In the operation of the program, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may make a request either orally or in writing to the principal for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Area schools participating in the program include Our Lady of the Gulf, St. Stanislaus, Annunciation School, St. Rose de Lima and all schools in the Hancock County School District and the Bay-Waveland Municipal School District.

Political rally sponsored by Bible Crusade

The Prisoners Bible Crusade, Inc. is sponsoring a political rally set for Aug. 23 at the Chester C. Lee plantation home on the old Kiln road in the Leetown community near the Pearl River and the Hancock County line, about ten miles east of Picayune.

The rally is scheduled for 11 a.m. and will begin with a dedication service of the home office building which serves as an office and distribution center for the Prisoners Bible Crusade, Inc.

Radio Stations WRJW (am) and WRPM (fm) will be on hand to broadcast the activities of the day, and will give an opportunity to all candidates to speak on the air.

All candidates in the second primary for state offices as well as county and district offices from Pearl River, Hancock, Stone, and Harrison Counties are invited to be present for the occasion.

Lee, chairman of the board of directors of the Picayune-based Prisoners Bible Crusade, said, "There will be plenty of good, fresh fried catfish, gumbo, hamburgers and other food available."

All proceeds from the sale of food and drinks will go into the fund of the Prisoners Bible Crusade for the exclusive purpose of purchasing and distributing Bibles and religious tracts to prisoners in penal and correctional institutions throughout the United States.

The Crusade has distributed more than 20,000 Bibles free to prisoners since May, 1973.

Black civic group endorses program for candidates

The Veterans and Civic Association of Hancock County, a black civic group, outlined a program for candidates for elected positions to consider at a meeting last week.

"The black communities of Hancock County will be taking a very close look at the progressive attitudes of Hancock County and will work to see that we always maintain a progressive trend," said association president Dan Frederick, Jr. "At large, the concerns of the black community are no different than those of any other community, however, there are areas of concern that are dreadful eyesores to not only the black community but Hancock County at large."

The group endorsed a list of programs it hopes elected officials will adopt including: more black representation in all city and county functions and a voice in who will represent the black community in the appointments, black employment at the county level, mandatory education for law enforcement and an increase in black participation; improved drainage and street conditions in the black areas; compulsory school attendance, improvement in hiring practices and standards for municipal schools and improvement of the school's awareness of discipline problems, utilization of revenue sharing money in the black communities, advisory committees in each supervisory district, renewed efforts for urban renewal in Pearlington, Kiln, Waveland and Bay St. Louis, employment of a full-time consultant to pursue federal grant programs and efforts to publicize all public county and city meetings.

Will the working man's real friend please stand up?

One man running for Governor spent one year getting our state's first Workman's Compensation Law on the books. The other candidate spent one day in a supermarket.

One candidate worked long and hard to increase Mississippi's unemployment benefits. The other candidate operated a gas pump.

One candidate wrote legislation that would abolish his office as State Tax Collector, a move that saved working men and women millions of tax dollars. The other candidate has a plan to use your tax money to guarantee bank loans to corporations... a plan which could commit us all to a debt of over $4 billion. And add over $2000 to the tax bill of every man, woman and child in this state.

One candidate helped ease the tax burden on elderly homeowners. He'll work to get the sales tax removed on prescription drugs when he's Governor. The other candidate expressed his concern for older citizens.

One man gets the job done. The other man gets his picture in the paper.

This Tuesday vote for the real friend of the working man, William Winter.

Our customers are asking — and you have a right to know

Ours is an age of inflation that has seen almost all prices rise and the prices of coal, oil and natural gas skyrocket. It's important that all consumers of electricity, which is produced by burning these fuels, be as knowledgeable as possible about the electric service so vital to our everyday lives. We're glad that you, our customers, are asking questions and hope that each of you will take a little time to read the questions posed here and the answers we give.

Air conditioning is the prime user of electricity during this time of year; our first answer shows its effect.

Sincerely,

Victor J. Daniel, Jr.
President

Questions and answers about your electric service

Q. How much more electricity do customers generally use in the summertime?

A. Air conditioning uses more electricity than we generally realize. Electricity is a measurable item just like gasoline, flour or bananas. When you flip the switch on an appliance, it's just like turning on a faucet—electricity flows. The amount is recorded, and you're billed for what you use.

The typical customer uses increasing amounts of electricity as the weather warms up in the summertime. This usage may vary somewhat from year-to-year because some summers are warmer than others.

To give you an idea of how typical usage increases, the following table shows the average residential usage billed by Mississippi Power Company in the summers of 1974 and 1975:

	Average residential KWH billed	Percent KWH increase over April 1974
April	588 KWH
May	643 KWH	9.4 %
June	1,007 KWH	71.3 %
July	1,158 KWH	96.9 %
August	1,278 KWH	117.3 %
1975
April	622 KWH
May	682 KWH	9.6 %
June	1,000 KWH	60.8 %
July	1,225 KWH	96.9 %

You can see from the above that because of air conditioning the typical residential customer uses about twice as much electricity in mid-summer as in April.

Q. Have electric rates increased since last summer?

A. Base rates have not changed since April 1, 1974. The cost of electric service has increased, however, as the price per kilowatt-hour is adjusted each month to reflect changes in the cost of fuel actually burned by our company to produce electricity. Both fuel costs and kilowatt-hour usage are higher this summer than last summer.

Q. How much has the increased cost of fuel added to electric service bills this summer?

A. Here are two examples comparing actual costs to residential customers of Mississippi Power Company:

Bill For 1,000 Kilowatt-Hours Residential Consumption
	1974	1975	Increase because of higher fuel costs
May	$26.66	$29.87	$3.21
June	27.20	27.71	0.51
July	28.80	31.36	2.56
August	25.40	30.40	5.00

Bill For 2,000 Kilowatt-Hours Residential Consumption
	1974	1975	Increase because of higher fuel costs
May	$50.68	$57.12	$6.44
June	51.78	52.78	1.00
July	54.99	60.09	5.10
August	48.17	58.18	10.01

Q. Why does the fuel adjustment vary from month-to-month?

A. There is a wide variation in the prices of the various fuels used by Mississippi Power Company to generate electric power. In June, 1975, coal cost 85.57 cents per million BTU, natural gas 85.88 cents per million BTU, and number two fuel oil $2.09 per million BTU. We produce as much power as possible from units that burn coal and natural gas. Natural gas supplies are greatly curtailed and vary from day-to-day and oil is burned as a replacement. When coal-burning units are shut down for maintenance, kilowatt-hours are produced burning oil. The variations in the fuel adjustment and hence the total bill are caused by the variations in the cost and quantities of the fuel burned each month.

Q. How do you determine what the fuel adjustment will be?

A. Every month the actual cost of fuel burned to produce a kilowatt-hour of electricity is calculated. The fuel cost adjustment in our rate schedules adjusts the price billed our customers for each kilowatt-hour used, either up or down, to reflect changes in the cost of the fuel actually used. Since the fuel adjustment is based on an actual cost which cannot be computed until the month is over, the adjustment in the bill reflects costs incurred the month before the billing period. All retail customers, including residential, commercial and industrial, pay the same fuel adjustment per kilowatt-hour.

Q. Does the company make a profit on the money collected because of fuel cost increases?

A. No, the money received from our customers as a result of the fuel adjustment does not add one cent to the company's profits. It merely offsets an actual expense.

Q. Can I be sure that my meter is accurate?

A. Even though the electric meter is one of the most reliable and accurate instruments, our company conducts a test program in accordance with standards established by the Mississippi Public Service Commission. Instances of meters recording too high are very rare.

Q. Are meters actually read every month?

A. The company schedules call for each meter to be read monthly. Sometimes, bad weather can delay the reading, and the reading and subsequent bill will include a few more days usage. In extended periods of inclement weather or when access to the premises is impossible, a bill may be estimated based upon past usage; this fact is noted on the bill. This is not a frequent occurrence, however, and the estimate is automatically corrected when the meter is read the following month.

Q. Is the price of electricity ever going down?

A. Not in the foreseeable future. Fuel prices will continue to rise, in all probability; in addition, the company will need reasonable increases in its base rates to offset the effects of inflation on its other operating and construction costs. It will take a major technological breakthrough, not now developed, to reverse the rising cost of energy of all kinds, but the employees of Mississippi Power Company are doing everything possible to keep the cost of electric service as low as possible and meet their service obligations to present and future customers.

Eagan captures second in Flying Scot

By ANN STIEFFEL

Marc Eagan of Bay Waveland Yacht Club finished second last week in the Flying Scot North American Championships. Sixty boats from all over the United States participated in this annual series which was held this year at Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans August 11-15.

It was a long grueling series as Southern's hospitality failed to provide what the sailors wanted most - wind. Race after race was postponed, recalled, re-started, or cancelled as a light breeze would appear from one direction, then shift first race of the Championship series. Paul Schreck's finishes of 10-1-5-1 were just enough to edge out Eagan in the final race to win the 1975, North Americans.

Entering the final race of the series, Eagan and Schreck were tied for first, well ahead of any other competitors. At the start of the last race both skippers were in somewhat of a bind because about twenty of some of the best sailors in the country managed to get the jump on them and had in mind doing everything possible to stay ahead of them. However, Schreck worked his way past all but one boat before the first mark and rounded second. Eagan had moved up to twelfth and steadily passed boats to round the next mark ninth, while Schreck dropped back to third. At the end of the first round Eagan had passed all but six boats, while Schreck was still third.

On the final leg of the race Eagan caught and passed four of the remaining boats and overlapped the last two as they crossed the finish line almost simultaneously. Schreck won the race by a few feet with Eagan in third.

In addition to the Teapot Trophy for finishing second overall, Eagan also won the Paul Schreck Trophy for scoring the highest number of points in the seven races, and the Detroit Boat Club Trophy for the best sailed Club owned Scot, plus a trophy for each of his first place finishes.

PRC Wildcats run through opening drills

POPLARVILLE...The Pearl River Junior College Wildcats began preparations for their 1975 season here Monday with 68 gridiron hopefuls reporting for the two-day workouts.

Head coach J. C. Arban called the first day of practice impressive, with the players showing a lot of enthusiasm and eagerness to get the season on the road.

"All we did today was to work on fundamentals and group exercises, and go over four running plays and a couple of pass plays," Arban said.

Arban also indicated that most of the week will be devoted to getting in shape and getting the offensive timing down.

Twenty-five of the squad are sophomore players; however, only five were starters and just six others can be termed lettermen.

Two-day workouts will continue through this week, with practice set for Saturday at 10 a.m.

Pearl River's band, cheerleaders and String of Pearls also began their week of preparation for the coming year.

Rev. Patton, band director, said 45 members showed up along with 18 members of the String of Pearls. Both groups are preparing to kick off the season with a special Bicentennial program.

On their marks

Coach David Earl Johnson looks on as the Pearl River Junior College Wildcats began their fall practice. Sixty-eight players reported to campus Sunday for the week of two-day workouts.

Tigers plan to mix up attack this season

The Bay High Tigers started their preseason workouts last week, and head coach Woody Alliston said that despite the loss of several star players at key positions, the 1975 Tigers should be better than last year's 3-6 squad.

With only 31 players on this year's team, however, the Tigers will have to overcome one major problem, its lack of depth. Of those 31 players, though, 16 are returning lettermen.

"Overall, our team size is small," said Coach Alliston, "with a few big players filling in some of the slots. But with many small boys on the roster, we're hoping for quickness off the line."

Alliston's probable signal caller to fill the shoes of Mike Magee is junior Bill Ginn, a letterman who was the Tigers' backup quarterback last season. "He's throwing real well," said Alliston. "And the good thing is that we'll have the receivers there for him to hit." Coach Alliston also said that sophomore David Rhodes will probably see a lot of action at the quarterback slot behind the 6-4 Ginn.

Coach Alliston with his entire backfield returning (except Mike Magee) is hoping for a better rushing attack this year than last. "Actually," said Alliston, "I'd rather run the ball, but we'll still probably end up throwing more often." Alliston did say that the Tigers' offensive attack would be more balanced than last season.

Those returning in the Tiger backfield are fullback Mark Thomas and running backs Clarence Piazza, Lee Morris, and Chris Johnson. All four were lettermen in 1974.

The area hardest hit senior graduations with the Bay High Tigers appears to be the offensive interior line. Coach Alliston does have several players trying out for the guard and center positions to fill those vacancies, however.

Coach Alliston has several returning lettermen at the other positions on the line. Among them are tackles Geoffrey Reed, Andy Ramsey, and David Landon; split ends Mike Ray and David Turcotte; and tight ends David Ray and Tracy Klein.

Returning lettermen on defense include linebackers Sam Saunders, Keith Starita, and Wilfred Parker.

Wing back Louis Dundin is another returning letterman.

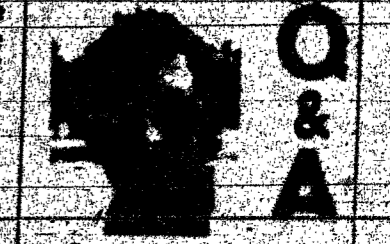

"The trouble is that with the lack of players," said Coach Alliston, "many of the boys will be playing both on offense and defense, and they won't be getting the rest they need."

Either David Turcotte or Bill Ginn will do the Tigers' punting, and Clarence Piazza, who is out with a minor injury, is expected to do the team's placekicking.

Coach Alliston's assistant coaches are Willie Bradley and Gary Griffin.

SPORT TALK

By Charlie Henderson

Q: Did golfer Lee Trevino ever say that he got in Australia in 1974 for criticizing the Royal Melbourne Course? He said he wouldn't.

A: Yes, Trevino said up. The fine was levied when the merry Mexican blew his top over what he thought were lumpy, poorly conditioned greens. As all you golfers know, that's easy to do after you've had a bad round. Lee cooled off later, apologized and paid the fine.

Q: When did the national football polls start, and which coach has won the most titles? I say it's Bear Bryant. Am I right?

A: Depends on what the other guy says. The wire service polls began with the AP (Associated Press) in 1936. The UPI poll got started in 1950. Through 1974 season, three coaches had won National titles four times. They are the late Frank Leahy of Notre Dame in 1943-44-47-48; John McKay of Southern California in 1952-57-72-73; and Alabama's Bear Bryant, who topped the polls in 1961-64-66-73. You'd have to rank these three among the best season after season.

Q: I'm a golfer. I want to know how to keep on performing over the seasons, and that kind of value is built into the solid new performer, MUSTANG II. Come in for a test drive of the season's best buy!

Hawks hungry for wins

Hancock North Central head football coach Irvin Favre sees this year's edition of the Hawks football team as more competitive and aggressive than last year's team. "We're out to improve on that 1-9 record from last year," said Favre. "We've got some real hungry ballplayers out there this year."

The major problem facing Coach Favre is not the attitude but the team's lack of depth. Only 28 players are going out for the team, meaning that some of the players will be working overtime, doing both offensive and defensive duties.

"Depth has always hurt us," said Favre. "But the boys have a lot of enthusiasm. I'm pleased with the practices so far. They're really an aggressive bunch."

The Hawks will have to fill slots vacated by last year's seniors, among them three players that earned football scholarships to play at Pearl River Junior College this year. Tackles Don Haas and Ricky Mitchell and tight end and quarterback Revette Shaw. It is believed to be the first time three Hawk footballers earned scholarships in one season.

Although the loss of Haas and Mitchell as well as other graduation losses have cut into the Hawks' line, Favre sees the front wall as secure, especially since two of his four returning lettermen will be at the tackle positions, both offensively and defensively. Bobby Shubert, one of the two line men who lettered, is a big 6-2, 248 pounds. The other returnee is Kendall Ladner, a 5-11, 187-pounder.

Favre's other two returning lettermen are backfield men Ted Williams and Sonny Schwartz. Williams, a 5-10, 160-pound fullback and quarterback from last year, will probably be the Hawks' starting signal caller. Schwartz, at 5-8, 160, is expected to move into the fullback slot.

Others included in the Hawks' backfield are Kenny Walsh, a 5-6, 140-pound speedster, and How Duckworth. Another running back who Favre thinks will see a lot of action is Wesley Moran.

"We'll run a pretty well-balanced attack," said Favre. "We'll run a lot from the pro set and the power-I. We've got the good range and good size to mix up our attack."

To keep the defense honest, Favre has several receivers that he is looking to. Among them is Deron Ladner, a 6-4, 170-pound senior who will be at the tight end position. Dexter Shaw and Kim Ladner are both wide receivers.

Coach Favre signed the work of junior David Schwartz, a 5-9, 170-pound "scraper" who will be at one of the guard positions. Schwartz will also probably see a lot of action at the linebacker slot.

Rebels prepare for grid opener with Bears

UNIVERSITY, Miss. — If you haven't been consulting your calendar lately, better haul it out for a careful scanning of college football weekends.

Before you know it — and the starting date is Sept. 6 — Mississippi's Johnny Rebs will be air-bound for Waco, Texas, and the campaign opener with Baylor's Bears.

The first-game date, incidentally, is the earliest in history for Ole Miss., which will be playing its first game in history with Baylor.

A week later, Coach Ken Cooper will be escorting his youthful squad to College Station to take on Texas A&M. Baylor is the defending Southwest Conference champion. The Aggies are favored for the 1975 title.

Then, after the third consecutive road game, this one with Tulane in New Orleans in the Superdome, and the first campus meeting of the season, with Southern Mississippi, the Rebels open their 1975 Southeastern Conference season against the defending champs, Alabama's Tide, in Birmingham. That date is Oct. 4.

The starting hours for all this activity are 7:30 for Baylor and Tulane, 4 p.m. for Texas A&M and 1:30 for all other games on the '75 Reb calendar.

To exploit this arduous slate, and it includes Georgia, South Carolina, Vanderbilt, LSU, Tennessee and Mississippi State after Bama, Coach Cooper and his staff are counting on a real measure of improvement over 1974.

Preparing for one of the three or four most difficult schedules in Ole Miss football history, the Rebs will launch workouts the morning of Aug. 15.

The squad will gather here Wednesday, and will undergo physical exams Thursday. Friday is the starting day for the first of three work days in shorts.

And until the practice schedule is moved front and center, the problems of development facing Cooper and his staff with the close of spring training will continue in focus.

News that is both good and bad emerged from the training room this week. For one big plus, doctors have certified bulky Pete Robertson, 255-pound junior tackle, following 10 months of inactivity. He'll help bulwark the left side of the defensive line.

On the minus side, holdover starter Johnny Hatch, who played the right corner on defense last season, has been knocked from the '75 lineup. His problem is the shoulder injury received last March in spring skirmishing.

Hatch is one of the few Rebs among the casualties who will not play this fall, according to current estimates. Given a tentative green light, tailback Michael Sweet will be able to rejoin the Rebel backfield. And Sweet, off spring training results prior to his knee injury, may be able to add a new dimension to Rebel running.

The Ole Miss staff is concerned with the development of the offensive line, which was partially rebuilt during the spring; with the quarterbacking, primarily because it is inexperienced; with the secondary on defense, again because of a lack of experience, and with overall depth.

Add the murderer's row of a schedule, and you have an idea of the problems facing the '75 Rebel team.

For some of the stronger areas, the defensive line could be a blockbuster with the anticipated return of

Rebel linebacking will be young but able. Play at the wide receiver berths should be competent, with flanker Rick Kimbrough (5-10, 179) heading this group. And the Rebel running back corps should be both talented and deep.

George Stuart (6-0, 205) and Kem Coleman (5-3, 235), junior and sophomore lettermen, return as linebacking regulars. And the backfield includes both incumbents who finished up as starters, tailback James Reed (6-0, 205) and fullback Paul Hofer (6-0, 186). Add Sweet and Jim Harris (5-10, 186) at tailback and L. Q. Smith (6-1, 208) and Tony Robinson (6-1, 204) at fullback for full offensive measure.

Center John MacNeill (6-2, 226), tackles Dick Lawrence (6-3, 238) and James Hickman (6-3, 232) and tight end Wade Griffin (6-5, 227) are veterans in the offensive line.

Where it all starts is at quarterback, and Cooper and backfield coach Charlie McCullers are hopeful that at least one of four candidates will step forward and take over.

The QB lineup is composed of one junior letterman in Stan Bounds (6-1, 190) and three sophomores, one of them a letterman in Tim Ellis (6-3, 192). The others are David Coates (6-1, 183) and George Plasketes (6-2, 202).

The extent of Cooper's twice-daily practice routine has not been set. Likely, it will be determined by the daily progress reports. At any rate, from Aug. 15 his 1975 squad will have 18 practice days ahead of the air-charter junket to Waco for the inaugural with Baylor.

Hate to be a kill-joy but for most of you guys that fish for fresh water fish (bass and perch) forget about it for the next two weeks. With all the rain we have been having the water is bad, most everywhere.

Went fly fishing Monday. Believe it or not, we caught two bass (eating size). Harping on the water, it's bad.

Heard they are catching a few green trout (bass) above Logtown at Old River and Bogue Homa Bayou.

Also was told that some speckled trout and Red Fish are being caught out of LaFrances Camp down at Ansley. Mostly at outer Campbell Bayou.

While talking about La Frances Camp, Linda Lowe the owner's wife had a birthday party given by her friends recently. Happy B'Day Linda.

Writing about parties had one last Sunday a week ago. A reunion in my honor, given by my children. There were 60 people present, 59 of them my children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. The party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan B. Haggerty on Filmont Place.

The main attraction was swimming and a picnic dinner furnished by each family. A party out of this world.

Four real folks are Beverly and Charlie Cerise who like salt water fishing and Lissie Estane and Bruce Lizana who like crabbing and any kind of fishing. Just to be out is wonderful they said.

Met a real guy Wesley Jablonski from Niagara Falls, New York. Don't know whether he is a fisherman or not. But on a party he gets a lot of strikes.

You probably all know Carl Baldenhofer who works with Frank Trapani. Carl is a mediocre fisherman but his hobby is oil paintings.

If you haven't seen them, he has some on display at Frank's place of business on Hi-Way 90. Didn't know we had such an artist in our midst.

Raymond Hoffman, Jr. and a group of his school buddies spent the past weekend at Pensacola, Fla. on a vacation trip, swimming and sailing. They are Peter Perez, Nick Landry, Stan Kotterman, Brad Billon, Robert Kroper, Carl Gottfield and John Palermo. They will all start college work in a couple of weeks. Raymond is going to U.N.O.

Ole Miss Rebels search for a quarterback

UNIVERSITY, Miss. The search for a quarterback to guide Ole Miss' 1975 football team got underway last week with the start of preseason drills.

Coach Ken Cooper, beginning his second season as the Rebel football boss, lists the issue of quarterbacking as one of the major priorities in development of this year's offensive machine.

Other vital areas include the offensive line and defensive secondary. "And, of course," Cooper added, "Good playing depth at every position."

The youthful atmosphere among the quarterbacks only serves to illustrate the overall lack of experience in a good many playing areas, with Cooper and offensive backfield coach Charlie McCullers centering their attention on three sophomores and a junior, two of them lettermen. Stan Bounds of Valdosta, Ga., a 6-1, 190-pound junior, is returning after a year's absence. He sat out last season to fully rehabilitate his right knee.

The sophomores are Tim Ellis (6-3, 192), David Coates (6-1, 183), and George Plasketes (6-2, 205).

Bounds lettered after playing in five games in '73. He started against Georgia, was one of the Rebel stars in the 14-7 loss to Auburn, throwing for Ole Miss' lone touchdown.

Ellis lettered last season via action against Tennessee and starting role in the final games against Mississippi State and Tulane. Coates and Plasketes who shared the quarterbacking mantle as 1973 freshmen, redshirted last autumn.

Starting with Kenny Lyons, the Rebels were directed by four quarterbacks throughout 1974's 3-8 campaign, Bill Malouf, then Butch Evans, then Ellis following Lyons into the arena.

Statistically, Ellis was by far the most productive member of this foursome. He completed 28 of 41 passes - 52.3 percent - for 427 yards and five of the six aerial touchdowns produced, two against the Vols, two against State's Bulldogs and one against Tulane. Also, he scored twice against the Green Wave.

However, while all four QB prospects were rated virtually on a par through last spring's drills, Bounds drew the number one berth followed in no certain order by Ellis, Coates and Plasketes.

Cooper hopes to have two members of this group able to shoulder the burden with a third member able to step into the picture, as needed.

They will be among a large array of Rebel veterans and rookies reporting Thursday for physicals with 41 lettermen, 20 on offense and 21 on defense, heading the group. Among them are 17 starters, 11 on offense including one returnee who was shifted to defense (Richard Clippard, offensive guard to middle guard), five on defense and one kicking specialist.

Among the offensive starters returning are three linemen who went to new posts - Curtis Weathers, tight end who went to split end; Wade Griffin, tackle to tight end; and Jim Hickman, guard to tackle. Other returnees include split end Bill Small, flanker Rick Kimbrough, tackle Dick Lawrence, center John MacNeill, tailback James Reed and fullback Paul Hofer.

Defensive starters returning include end Gary Turner, tackle Ben Williams, linebackers George Stuart and Ken Coleman, left cornerback George Reed and kicking specialist Steve Loringhouse.

Linebacker position is very hot indeed. Jimmy Hatch, backer who was at the right corner in the secondary, for the season and to compensate, sophomore flanker Robert Fabris and senior tailback Dan Murff have been shifted to defense.

Cooper plans to work twice daily through the first 10 or 11 days of preseason preparations. His squad will drill in shorts through the first three days of practice.

THANK YOU!

Myself, Miclam, children and grandchildren extend a big thank you to the Good people of Beat 3. Also to the many friends that helped me to get reelected as your constable.

Sincerely,

W. E. Carbonette

A Stout Stingray

Gary Stout of New Jersey hooked a 110-pound stingray Saturday night at the Uman Street Pier. The stingray put up a good fight, and Gary needed the help of Mike Poulsen to pull it in. It took eight people to pull it onto the pier. The stingray measured 3 1/2 feet long to the base of the

More than one way to fry

Just like the adage that "there's more than one way to skin a cat," there also is more than one way to cook fish.

While the time-honored recipe of skillet, bacon dripping and corn meal is certainly worthy of anyone's interest, it never fails to create a greasy, fatty fish dish. One such gourmet treat that is favored by Mercury outboard fishing experts is pan-fry.

For fish to make and taste just like the fish you bought in almost any part of the country, Cappelletti, Smith, and other equally abundant fish are the main ingredients. Here's how to make it:

Take six to eight pounds of cleaned fish in a pot and cover with milk. To this add:

- 2 chopped onions
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 cracked peppercorns

Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer five minutes. Strain into a saucepan, add three potatoes (peeled and sliced) and bring to a boil.

While potatoes cook, remove skin from fish and flake the flesh from the bones. Dice two slices of fat bacon; saute until crisp.

When potatoes become tender, add the bacon, fish, 2 1/2 cups milk (or heavy cream). Include the fat from the skillet in which the fish was fried.

When the pot is simmering again, remove from heat and serve chowder with crackers. The Mercury staff suggests that this recipe is enough to serve six to eight persons.

Sixteenth section timber sales increase, says forester

Despite a pronounced slump in the log market, sales of timber from Sixteenth Section forest lands grossed more than a million dollars during the 1974-75 fiscal year ending June 30, according to Billy T. Gaddis, Mississippi State Forester.

This represented an average return of about $3 per acre to the schools in the State from timber sales.

Although this year's timber sales total was considerably under last year's record 12-month gross receipts of slightly over two million dollars, the state forester said he regards the reduction as a temporary one.

In acting as technical forestry advisor and agent for the Boards of Supervisors, the State Forestry Commission studies the demand picture to determine the best time to recommend sales of forest products from sixteenth section lands.

"It's just good business sense to sell when prices are good and retreat from the market during slumps," said Gaddis. "Fortunately, the Boards of Supervisors, who under the law, have responsibility for approving timber harvests on school sections, have generally been very responsive to our advice."

In some instances I know it hasn't been easy for them to delay sales when inflationary pressures put a strain on local school budgets," he added.

Gaddis points out that since 1958, when Stone County became the first of 63 counties to eventually sign the Sixteenth Section Timber Management and Marketing Agreement with the Forestry Commission as required by state law, more than ten million dollars has been grossed by county school systems.

According to records kept by the Commission since 1958 over 22,000 acres of school section forest land has been improved through tree planting and direct seeding. Another 63,000 acres has been made more productive through "weeding" of cull or undesirable species. In addition, Forestry Commission personnel have been very active in assisting in the protection of school timberland from fire, unlawful trespass and illegal cutting.

State Forester Gaddis said that illegal cutting of timber and clearing of sixteenth section timberland, usually by uninformed lessees, is still a problem in many counties of the state. He emphasized that the Forestry Commission, acting as the agent of the Boards of Supervisors, is responsible for the investigation and reporting of such violations.

"Many people fail to realize that we only advise and provide technical forestry assistance to the Boards with respect to school forest lands," said Gaddis. "It is the responsibility of the Supervisors and appropriate law enforcement officials to initiate legal proceedings against accused violators," he added.

Gaddis noted also that many people mistakenly believe that the Forestry Commission controls the leasing of sixteenth section land.

"This too, is the responsibility of Boards of Supervisors," he said. "The Commission is responsible for reporting lease violations to the Boards under the timber provisions of the law and recommends that a lease be terminated when it is discovered that waste has been committed on school timberlands." The State Forester concluded that throughout the area of the state with school land under the Management Agreement with the Forestry Commission, many sections are in a growth condition to begin providing good monetary returns to the schools. These specific sections are now growing each year $40 to $60 in product value per acre, he said. All school lands have the potential of producing good income to the schools with the support of the people and their officials, according to Gaddis.

IMAGINATIVE BAITS

Fish will eat almost anything that finds its way into their habitat. This includes animals, insects, some plants, other fish, and many man-made concoctions that bear little resemblance to anything they've ever seen before.

The range of baits that will catch fish is limited only by man's imagination. If a bait has an odor, whether pleasant or unpleasant, and can be placed upon a hook, it will probably appeal to some kind of fish.

Rehabilitation center receives training grant

A privately operated rehabilitation center in Jackson, Mississippi, Methodist Rehabilitation Center, which serves adults disabled by chronic illness and catastrophic injury, has recently received a training grant for its communications department from the Governor's Office of Education and Training said executive director Dr. Milton Baxter.

The long-range aim of the grant, Baxter said is to serve clients of the vocational rehabilitation division in finding productive employment.

"It is one of the largest and best equipped rehabilitation centers in the nation," said a spokesman of the center, and employs the "team" approach. This technique combines the skills of the medical staff and allied health professionals into a closely coordinated team to enhance the success of the total rehabilitation process. The goal and philosophy of Mississippi Methodist Rehabilitation Center are the rehabilitation of the "total man," spiritually, mentally, and physically, and the return of the disabled person into the community as a productive member of society.

Services begin in the home community, with the aid of Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors. Potential trainees are thoroughly screened by Vocational Rehabilitation and then sent to Mississippi Methodist Rehabilitation Center for Rehabilitation Communications Department training. The end result is aimed toward unsubsidized employment in the community.

The Rehabilitation Communications Department is seeking to provide several areas of training for these handicapped trainees. One area is that of 16mm movie film production, through which trainees are learning to light scenes and sets for filming, operate 16mm cameras, edit 16mm film, record, and use microphones. Another area of training involves 35mm still photography. The trainees are involved in the shooting of film for public relations purposes, as well as medical documentation (as outpatients and bed patients enter the hospital, the physicians will make requests for 35mm color slides to be made, in order that certain medical problems be documented on film).

The graphic arts is another major area of training. Activities include setting of type face for brochures, drawing of pictures for illustration in speeches, and 16mm films, production of business forms for administrative activities, and signage design and general graphics production. A third area of training involves the operation and maintenance of electronic television equipment. This serves 60 beds, as well as the professional offices. A production center in basement of the Center will provide television programming as well as instructional programming to the patients and professionals. Trainees will learn the operation of this production center and assist in the instructional films and television activities taking place in the hospital. This involves the operation of movie equipment as well as video cassette systems.

A fourth area of training focuses upon the operation of the hospital telephone system for receptionists. Three persons are in training for this telephone operation and are expected soon to join the permanent staff of Mississippi Methodist Rehabilitation Center.

"It is the expectation of the Rehabilitation Communications Department that businesses in the community be interested in, and hire these people when they complete their training program," the spokesman said. If an employer has specialized training needs beyond that which is offered at the Rehabilitation Communications Department, additional training for a specific activity can be provided at the Rehabilitation Communications Department, as well as a training period on the job."

For further information concerning placement of these trainees into private enterprise, contact Dr. William C. Norris, Mississippi Methodist Rehabilitation Center, P. O. Box 4878, Fondren Station, Jackson, Mississippi 39216, phone 601-961-2611.

Conservation group urges toxic chemical controls

The National Wildlife Federation has endorsed a proposed toxic substances control bill designed to prevent the marketing of environmentally unsound chemical substances.

Thomas L. Kimball, NWF executive vice president, said, "There are more than 2 million known chemical substances, with thousands of new ones developed each year. The disturbing aspect of this swelling production is how little we know about the human health and environmental effects of exposure to these substances either before or after their manufacture."

The Federation submitted written comments on the proposed legislation to the House Subcommittee on Consumer Protection and Finance, at the request of the subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Mich.).

In commenting on three bills before the subcommittee dealing with toxic substances control, Kimball endorsed H. R. 7548 as the measure best fulfilling the spirit of a toxic substances control resolution adopted by NWF delegates at the organization's annual meeting in Pittsburgh last March.

That resolution called for testing of all chemical substances prior to their manufacture and introduction into the environment, prohibition or restriction of substances presenting an "unreasonable risk" to human health and the environment, and placing the burden of proof of safety upon the chemical manufacturers.

Among the features of the bill praised by Kimball were: its "well-developed definition" of an "unreasonable risk"; its provision for citizen input in the chemical testing review process; and a requirement that the manufacture or importation of new chemicals be cleared with the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The proposed bill's definition of an "unreasonable risk" would ban substances which have been found to induce cancer, birth defects, gene mutations or any irreversible or serious pathology.

Farmers Home adjusts loan income requirement

Hancock County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, Kenneth W. Lee, announced today that the maximum adjusted family income for 402 housing loans has been increased from $10,200 to $12,900. The adjusted family income is a factor in determining eligibility for persons seeking financial assistance.

Lee said the adjusted increase would assist families in the Hancock County area who, in the past, were ineligible for assistance due to their adjusted income exceeding the maximum limit. Further information may be obtained from the Farmers Home Administration, P. O. Box 97, Bay St. Louis, MS or by calling 467-9009.

The Value of One Vote

How often have you heard people comment that their "one single vote" is unimportant? How often have you not voted on a bond issue, a school board election, or even a major election because you didn't feel your "one single vote," cast among the millions in our state and nation, could possibly count for much?

The enormous power of just "ONE SINGLE VOTE" has often been demonstrated throughout history. The course of nations has been changed because of "ONE SINGLE VOTE" cast . . . or not cast.

In March 1868, the impeachment process of our constitution was implemented. Andrew Johnson, the Tennessee tailor, who, upon the tragic death of Lincoln, became the 17th president, was charged with abusing his executive powers, was impeached by the House of Representatives and tried by the Senate. Johnson was found not guilty by the Senate by the narrow margin of "ONE SINGLE VOTE." That vote saved our nation's highest office from dishonor and also prevented, what most historians believe, would have been a grave miscarriage of justice.

Right after World War I, a young German soldier living in Munich, was bitter and discontented. He joined a small political group, which was demanding change, stayed with it as it grew and began to mobilize against the legal government of Germany. In 1923, at a beer hall in Munich, this new revolutionary group held a meeting to elect its leader. By the majority of "ONE SINGLE VOTE" they chose that ex-soldier. The obscure soldier was none other than Adolph Hitler, and the rest is history.

After the American revolution, there was great bitterness in our land. There were those who wanted to cut all cultural ties with England. A bill was introduced in Congress to change the official language of our nation from English to German. The Congress, then under the Articles of Confederation, had a tie vote. One man decided to change his vote, and by the "ONE SINGLE VOTE" cast by a German immigrant, English was kept as our official language. Rutherford Hayes was elected president by the margin of "ONE SINGLE VOTE" of his electoral college.

The House of Representatives deciding deadlock presidential elections on two occasions, John Quincy Adams and Thomas Jefferson, elected our presidents by "ONE SINGLE VOTE" in each case.

The state of Texas was admitted to the union in 1845 in the Senate by "ONE SINGLE VOTE."

If "ONE SINGLE VOTE" per precinct in two states, Ohio and California, had voted the other way, Thomas Dewey would have been president in 1948 rather than Harry Truman. "ONE SINGLE VOTE" meant the passage of the Draft Act of World War II. YOUR vote IS important. Your right to vote is precious. Safeguard it by using it . . . cast your "one single vote" — it may change the history of the world.

Your Vote Tuesday Is Important!

CATCHING HOPPER BAIT

Time was when a fisherman could hire a couple of fleet-footed boys to spend a summer afternoon catching grasshoppers for him at the rate of a penny for each one delivered in a glass jar. Not any more. The price has gone up . . . and the lowly grasshopper is in great demand as fishing bait.

Someone once sought to capitalize on the grasshopper's popularity with anglers by inventing a mobile hopper catcher. It was a wide-mouthed scoop that fitted across the front of a car or truck. The idea was to drive quickly through a field infested with grasshoppers, forcing the insects into the scoop where they were trapped until they could be removed and placed in containers suitable for going fishing.

Recalling their efforts at capturing grasshoppers, grasshoppers, the fishing experts at Mercury outdoors appreciate just what a gadget such as this can do.

There's no good substitute for fast feet and quick hands when it comes to grasshopper collecting. Sometimes a small net thrown over the back will work, but usually the grass is too long and the potential bait slips out by crawling beneath the edge of the net.

Once you've caught a few, place them in a clear plastic jar along with some fresh grass and a few grass leaves from weeds or trees. As long as they stay out of direct sunlight, grasshoppers will keep almost indefinitely in such a jar.

A handy device can be made by tying a coned-shaped paper cup over the jar mouth. The rim of the cup and jar will be able to stand out the best you can.

These grasshoppers keep fresh, active, and hungry. Put place grasshoppers at the tip of their antennae and they'll be ready to go.
